

10 things you should know about this week

<MUSIC>

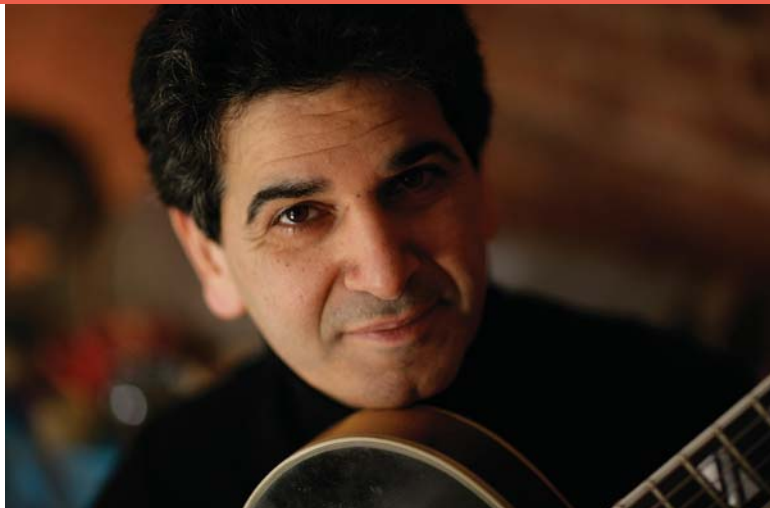

Friday, Jan. 6

Roni Ben-Hur

Varanese

2106 Frankfort Ave. • 899-9904

ronibenhur.com

Free; 6:30 p.m.

The impressively named Israeli guitarist Roni Ben-Hur drops in with Jeff Sherman, John Goldsby and Michael Ferraraccio for this special event, which just happens to overlap with the Jazz Education Network's conference (see page 19 for the full story) this week. Ben-Hur, a resident of Manhattan since 1985, recently released an album, Mojave, a collaboration with Brazilian bassist Nilson Matta, and has toured to much acclaim from here to Croatia and back again. Goldsby, the bassist with the WDR Big Band in Cologne, Germany, is also known and loved around here for his 2008 recording, Live at the Nachbar, with our Jacob Duncan and Jason Tiemann. Local percussionist Michael Ferraraccio and guitarist Jeff Sherman round out the quartet, adding some Hot Brown to this smorgasbord. —Peter Berkowitz